Governor Pleasant Porter, Chief of the Creeks and chairman of the World's Fair Commission of the Territory, has issued a call to the five Nations to meet in convention at Holdenville on October 28 to select the Commissioner whose salary they ask the Exposition Company to defray. This call will not be published until the result of the St. Louis conference is known. The members of the visiting delegation hope that they can take the news back to the territory, which they feel certain will insure one of the most interesting exhibits at the World's Falr.

The plan of ruising the money for the exhibit was also explained by Delegate Douglas, who is a member of the Dawes Commission in the Territory. Each of the five Nations has practically pledged an appropriation of $5.000 toward an adequate representation of the civilized Indian citizen of the United States. A delegation from the five councils of the respective Nations will wait on Congress at its next session and ask for an appropriation for the same purpose. The railways traversing the Territory have promised to contribute, and busiters houses of St. Louis that do a large annual business in the Territory are expected to bein the display.

SENATOR MASON IS ON HAND.

Question of Who Shall Be Culloni's Colleague Is Engrossing the Attention of the Leaders.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.-The State Pair furnished an excuse for the presence here to-day of the most prominent Republicens in Illinois. Senator Mason is the only candidate for United States Senator, with headquarters and an aggressive corps of workers, headed by Doctor Berr of Chicago, Congressmen Caldwell, Kern, Cannon, Warner and Hepare present. Mr. Dawes is absent. personal relations with President McKinley and family were so intimate, a friend of the former Comptroller stated, that he did not feel like engaging in a campaign for office so soon after the death of his friend. Mr. Cannon's presence is not explained by ended Sautember 30, there were examized

Speaker Sherman is one of the busiest politicians present. His friends openly avow his candidacy for Governor in 1901. Not one of the big leaders has an opinion of value on the prospective muss next year. The senatorial situation is the main topic, of course, and the Dawes legion far outnumbers the opposition, which is confined in the main, to the State administration. Mason's quarters have been crowded and his managers claim indorsements from welve of the nineteen Republican counties that held conventions this fall. The Dawes leaders smile at the claim and ask that the indorsements be printed and framed. They emphasize the word "indorsements."

Little Comfort for Democrats. Among the visiting leaders is former Representative Sam Wilson of Neoga. He was a delegate to the last State convention and was instructed to vote for Yates. I doubt if he would obey instructions if Democratic majorities.

"There is no doubt in my mind," declared the ardent follower of Republicanism, "that our county has given its last Democratic our county has given its last Democratic majority. The party is split up the back, and nothing has held the majority in line but the candidates for Congress. Now that we are in a solid Republican district and there is no chance for a Democrat, we will tweep the county. Our preferences for Sonator? I have heard no discussion of the subject. I suppose most of those who have mentioned it to me are for Mr. Dawes, but there is no interest in the matter, and, any-how. Cumberland will have little or nothing to say in selecting the candidate, and for this we have to thank Senator Pemberton, this we have to thank Senator Pemberton, and we will not soon forget or forgive him. Our county is a Callom county, and I am a Culiom man, and if the Senator will tell me who he wants I will be for his fellow." David C. White, former Representative from Mason County, said Republicans up his way were Dawes, and no other names were mentioned. While sentiment seemed to be tending in the direction of Dawes, there was not much pronounced sentiment. Dawes, was not much pronounced sentiment. Dawes was regarded as an honest, capable and able young man, who would reflect credit on his party and State.

Whom Does Cullom Prefer?

Most everybody is speculating about the position Senator Cullom will take in the senatorial fight. I have said all along that Cullom would turn up for Dawes when the showdown was demanded. He feels kindly toward Mr. Mason, it is true, and is saying nothing that will injure Mr. Mason's chances for the caucus nomination. But as a matter of fact Mr. Mason stands no manner of a chance for re-dicction, and nobody knows it better than Senator Culiom. It her of a chance for re-election, and nobody knows it better than Senator Culiom. It does not injure Dawes for Culiom and his friends and all the party leaders in the State to say words of grace and hope to Mason. None know so well as they that Senator Mason cannot succeed himself. It is a positive advantage to the late Comptroller of the Currency for Senator Mason to remain in the field as the principal opponent of Dawes, for it centralizes the fagerds of the Dawes oppositit non a man who will not have following enough in the caucus to make him a factor for good or evil. I write this with all due respect to Senator Mason, who, personally, is one of the best-liked and ablest Republicans in the State. If it were possible for him to address the Republican joint caucus in January, 1963, before it votes for Senator, he might sweep the board, for there is not in illinois the equal of Mason on the stump. He has more than once forced an unwilling and even antagonistic convention to lustruct for him by the mere power of his eloquence.

struct for him by the mere power of his cloquence.

Where Senator Mason Erred.

Senator Mason's fatal mistake was when he threw down the gauge of battle to Mr. McKinley in 1828. There are as many admirers of the late President in Illinois as there are in Ohio, and they will not support a man who even opposed the McKinley policies.

Mr. Mason is too independent of party discipline. Again, in many cases he has obtained good places for personal friends who have not a particle of political influence anywhere on earth. The politicians charge this to his big heart—and there is no gainsaying the fact that it is bis. All in all, Senatur Mason is not the kind of a man who is desired by Illinois Republicans for United States Senator. He was elected in 1857 by the tremendous force of popular approval.

The party leaders almost to a man, em-

Inited States Senator. He was elected in 1897 by the tremendous force of popular approval.

The party leaders, almost to a man, embracing all factions in the S.ate, were bitterly opposed to Mason and his aspirations. But he won a merited victory. Now the leaders appear to be quiescent, don't care, and the Republican voters are against Senator Mason. He cannot possibly win.

Now as regards Cullom and his possible intentions. I am reminded of the Peoria convention, where Senator Cullom was engaged in a life-and-death struggle with John R. Tanner. The issue was doubtful, if the Tanner programme of controlling the convention from the start carried it was almost a certainty that Cullom would be badiy beaten. Into the crisis at the most critical moment came Charles G. Dawes, confidential friend of President McKinley. He consented to stand for temporary chairman and the great, powerful name of McKinley. He consented to stand for temporary chairman and the great, powerful name of McKinley being behind him, he was successful.

What was Mr. Dawes's platform? He announced it himself the day before the con-vention met. Calling the political corre-spondents into his room in the hotel, he said: Dawes Was a Cullom Man.

Bawes Was a Cullom Man.

"Now, you will oblige me if you will put this down exactly as I give it to you, and I will speak slowly, so you will have no trouble. I have been asked to become the candidate of Senator Culiom's friends for temporary chairman of the convention, and I have decided that I will do it. I am in favor of an emphatic indorsement of the candidacy of S nator Cullom for Senator, and a declaration in the platform that it is the sense of the Rem bitcans or tilinois that he should be re-elected to the Senate of the United States."

Mr. Daw's had a majority of something like seventy-two over John J. Brown, the Tanner candidate, and the Tanner delegates in all the contested counties, excepting Eligar, voted for Brown. Edgar's delegates in all the contested counties, excepting Eligar, voted for Brown. Edgar's delegation did not yote on the question.

After the election last year Dawes walked into the Culiom heafquarters in Chleago, pulled off his cont, and declared a willingness to help the Cullom cause in any manner possible. He was at cullom's right shoulder all through the hattle of last January, and never faltered in the belief that Culiom would be chosen on the first ballot.

The conclusion is evident that Culiom has lot.

The conclusion is evident that Cultom has not forgotten that Dawes was his "friend in need" in the jest. It is certain also that Cultom knew that Dawes hed amoltions to sit in the Senate as Mason's successor. Hence, I say there is not much doubt whom Senator Cultom prefers as his colleague in the Senate.

LIFE INSURANCE AS AN ASSET. Prominent Business Men Regard It a Wise Investment.

New York, Oct. 2.—The tendency of business men to protect their estates by policies of life insurance is becoming as general as to protect their buildings by policies of fire insurance.

Since George W. Vanderbilt of New York and Frank H. Peavey of Minn-apolis can took policies for $1,000.000 a few years since in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, there has been no equally large sum written on one individual—those femaln the record figures for the world.

But policies of 150.000 and $100.000, and even $200,000, are so frequent as to cause little comment, and even who is little comment, and even who is little early in this year it passed almost as a matter of course.

It is significant that when a business man's estate is settled these days life insurance is generally found to be a very important part of it—often all there is of it.

Life insurance in one of the great companies yields a good rate of interest as an investment, apart from the protection it affords.
